

Savannah City Directories Guide

City Directories are useful for researching genealogy, building history, and businesses. The directories generally include three main sections: a directory of residents; a business directory; and a street index. Supplemental information found at the beginning and the end varies by year, and can include information about fraternal organizations, local governments, public transportation, etc. Advertisements are generally scattered throughout all sections.

City Resident Directory includes: Name of head of household (often men and female widows; later single employed females); name of spouse (often in parentheses following name of husband; mid to late 19th century); street name and house number of residence; occupation and place of employment. The resident directory is organized alphabetically, and early years include designators to indicate race or are separated by race.

Business Directory includes: Name of business; address of business; and proprietor. The business directory is organized by business type.

Street Index includes: Name of individual or business occupying the building. The street index is organized by street name and nearest cross street.
