FOUNTAIN/FORSYTH PLACE

Forsyth Place was laid out in 1851 and named for Governor of Georgia and U.S. Secretary of State John Forsyth. The park was designed by Bavarian landscape gardener William Bischoff with its focal point being this impressive iron fountain cast in 1858 by Jans Beebe & Co. of New York from a design of a French fountain displayed at London's Crystal Palace Exhibition in 1851. There are similar fountains in Zanesville, Ohio, Tarrytown, New York and Cuzco, Peru. The fountain was first painted white in 1935 and the 1988 restoration by Robinson Iron Co. of Alexander City, Alabama was financed by the sale of 1,848 signature bricks and matching funds from the City of Savannah.

Forsyth Place is located south of Monterey Square.
