JOHNSON SQUARE Savannah, Georgia

Johnson Square, first of the pattern of squares upon which Savannah's plan is based. The Monument serves to mark the Grave of Nathaniel Greene, Revolutionary War hero. Savannah's City Hall is in the background.

2016

JOHNSON SQUARE, Savannah, Georgia. This beautiful mid-city park was the first established in Savannah. It was named for Governor Johnson of South Carolina, a friend of the Georgia Colonists. Surrounding it during the years from 1733 when it was laid out were the Church, the House for Strangers, the Public Mill, Public Bake Oven and Public Store and Well. Nathaniel Greene, the Revolutionary hero, and his son lie buried beneath the imposing monument erected in his honor.
