

Record Series #: 5100D-005
Name: Savannah Fire and Emergency Services Collection
Earl W. Mock
Dates: circa 1950-1991
Extent/Size: 17 items (0.15 cubic feet)

Biographical History:

Earl W. Mock (born in Savannah, Georgia, circa 1931) was a firefighter with the Savannah Fire Department for thirty-eight years (August 1, 1953 to October 1991), during which time he was stationed at Station No. 3, briefly at Station No. 2, and for the last ten years of his career at Station No. 5. He attained the rank of Captain and remained there at his own request since further advancement would have changed his job from fighting fires to a more supervisory role. His retirement in 1991 was due to department policy requiring retirement at the age of sixty. Mock's father-in-law, Frank Merritt, was also a firefighter and was Mock's first captain on the force. Earl Mock's son served as a firefighter for ten years.

Scope and Content:

Record Series 5100D-005, Savannah Fire and Emergency Services Collection, Earl W. Mock (circa 1950-1991), includes photocopies and reproductions of scans of papers, clippings and photographs related to the career of Earl W. Mock with the Savannah Fire Department. Of particular interest is a commendation given to Mock in recognition for saving the life of a child (1970) and photographs from his retirement party (1991). There is one composite department photograph with employee identifications (circa 1950).
