

Record Series #: 5100-069
Name: Savannah Fire and Emergency Services Bureau Records,
Station/Company Log Books
Dates: 1919-2019 (some gaps)
Extent/Size: 176 document cases, 1 records carton (89 cubic feet)

Scope and Content:

Record Series 5100-069, Savannah Fire and Emergency Services Bureau Records, Station/Company Log Books (1919-2019), includes the records of individual fire companies as maintained in a daily log or journal. These log books contain the most comprehensive and complete record of all the activities of a company, including engine companies, booster companies, snorkel companies, rescue squads, etc. Information found in the log books includes: platoon and company rosters and roll call; fire calls received and responded to; training and inspections; changes in company name, duties, or location; etc. Certain information is standard and can be found throughout all the logs, for instance a daily record of who was on duty and fire calls. There is a lot of information that varies from log to log and changes over time, including theatre details and uniform measurements. The log books are arranged alphabetically and numerically by company, and then chronologically within each company.

There are gaps in the runs of log books for some companies and stations. Over the years, as stations have been activated, deactivated, moved or torn down, there has been some loss of log books. At one time, there was an effort to centralize all the log books at the Fire Headquarters. There was a flood in the basement of Fire Headquarters circa 1970s during which several boxes of older log books were damaged and as a result thrown away.
